Salvini To-Night.

The advance sale of seats for the Sal-vini engagement has been such as to demonstrate that this city is well able to hold its own as a generous patron of the higher drama. Local theatre-goers have selected Salvini as their special favorite, and his coming is always look-ed upon as one of the chief events of the season. Although his fame has been enhanced from the fact that he is the only actor of his day who has been able to thoroughly arouse in the audiences of the period an enthusiastic regard for the sentiments of old-time ro-mance, he is by no means con-fined to these limits. He is not an actor fined to these limits. He is not an actor of one part, but of many parts. As a comedian or a tragedian he seems to be equally at home; unlike most of the greater actors, he has no pronounced mannerisms, but, like the great artists of France, he is able to lose all self-consciousness and sink his identity in the role he portrays. During his stay here his admirers will have an excellent opportunity to see him in the field of comedy, and, of course, all those interested in theatricals will be present on Friday night to see the first per-formance here of his new play, "The Student or Salamanca." The engagement opens to-night with the "Three Guards-

The Imperial Testimonial The box-office of the Academy of Music

The following letter is one of many already received, and the interest manifested by several other organizations pre-dicts a crowded house. Manager's Office, Academy of Music,

Manager H. F. Smith, Richmond, Va. Dear Sir: Permit me to tender the thanks of the members of Richmond Lodge of Elks to the Imperial Quartette their delightful rendition of southern melodies and negro dialect songs at the social session of our lodge. Each specialty and quartette number was heartly enjoyed and the work of the quartette was the feature of the evening. Yours cordially,

THOS. G. LEATH, Chairman of "Social Session."
